

Sakura Silk Studio - Brand Guidelines

Founded in 1952 in the Nishijin district of Kyoto, Sakura Silk Studio is a third-generation atelier specializing in hand-woven Nishijin-ori silk textiles.

Our Heritage:

Master weaver Tanaka Haruko established the studio after training for 15 years under the legendary obi craftsman Okamoto Seizo. Today, her granddaughter Tanaka Yuki leads a team of 8 master weavers.

Philosophy - Iki (refined elegance):

We believe in iki - refined elegance without excess. Our textiles embody understated sophistication, blending Edo-period geometric patterns with contemporary color palettes.

Signature Products:

- Nishijin-ori obi sashes for formal kimono
- Furoshiki wrapping cloths in modern designs
- Silk scarves and pocket squares for international markets
- Custom textile commissions for interior designers

Materials:

All our silk is sourced from Tango Peninsula (Kyoto Prefecture), one of Japan's premier silk-producing regions. We use only natural dyes: indigo from Tokushima, safflower red from Yamagata, and persimmon tannin from Nara.

Brand Voice:

Quiet sophistication. We let the textiles speak. Our communication style is warm but measured, knowledgeable but never academic. We use first person plural.
